

VAKA YIKO

Impacts of VakaYiko's EIDM intervention in Ghana

September 2016

Ibrahim Maida Inusah-
Programme Director, VakaYiko
Ghana

ginks

‘Evidence-informed policy is that which has considered a broad range of research evidence; it considers other factors such as political realities and public debates. It is not exclusively based on research. In some cases, research evidence may be considered and rejected.’

Source:

Authors based on (Newman, Fisher, &
Shaxson, 2012)

The VakaYiko Consortium

GHANA:

- GINKS
- Civil Service Training Centre
- Parliament

Zimbabwe:

- ZeipNET
- Ministry of Youth
- Ministry of Industry and Commerce
- Parliament

South Africa:

- ODI/HSRC/CSIR
- Department of Environmental Affairs

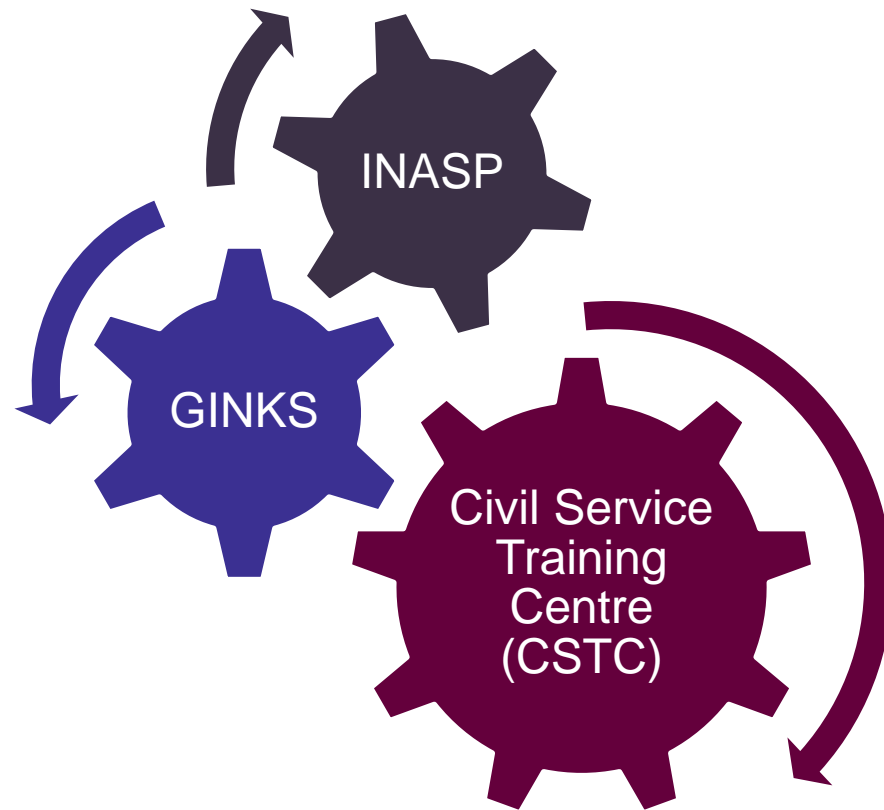

UGANDA:

- Research Dept., Parliament of Uganda
- Ugandan National Academy of Sciences
- Institute of Parliamentary Studies

Capacity Building for EIPM in Ghana Civil Service

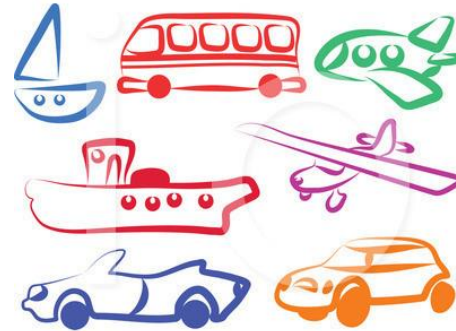

A Toolkit & ToT

Impacts

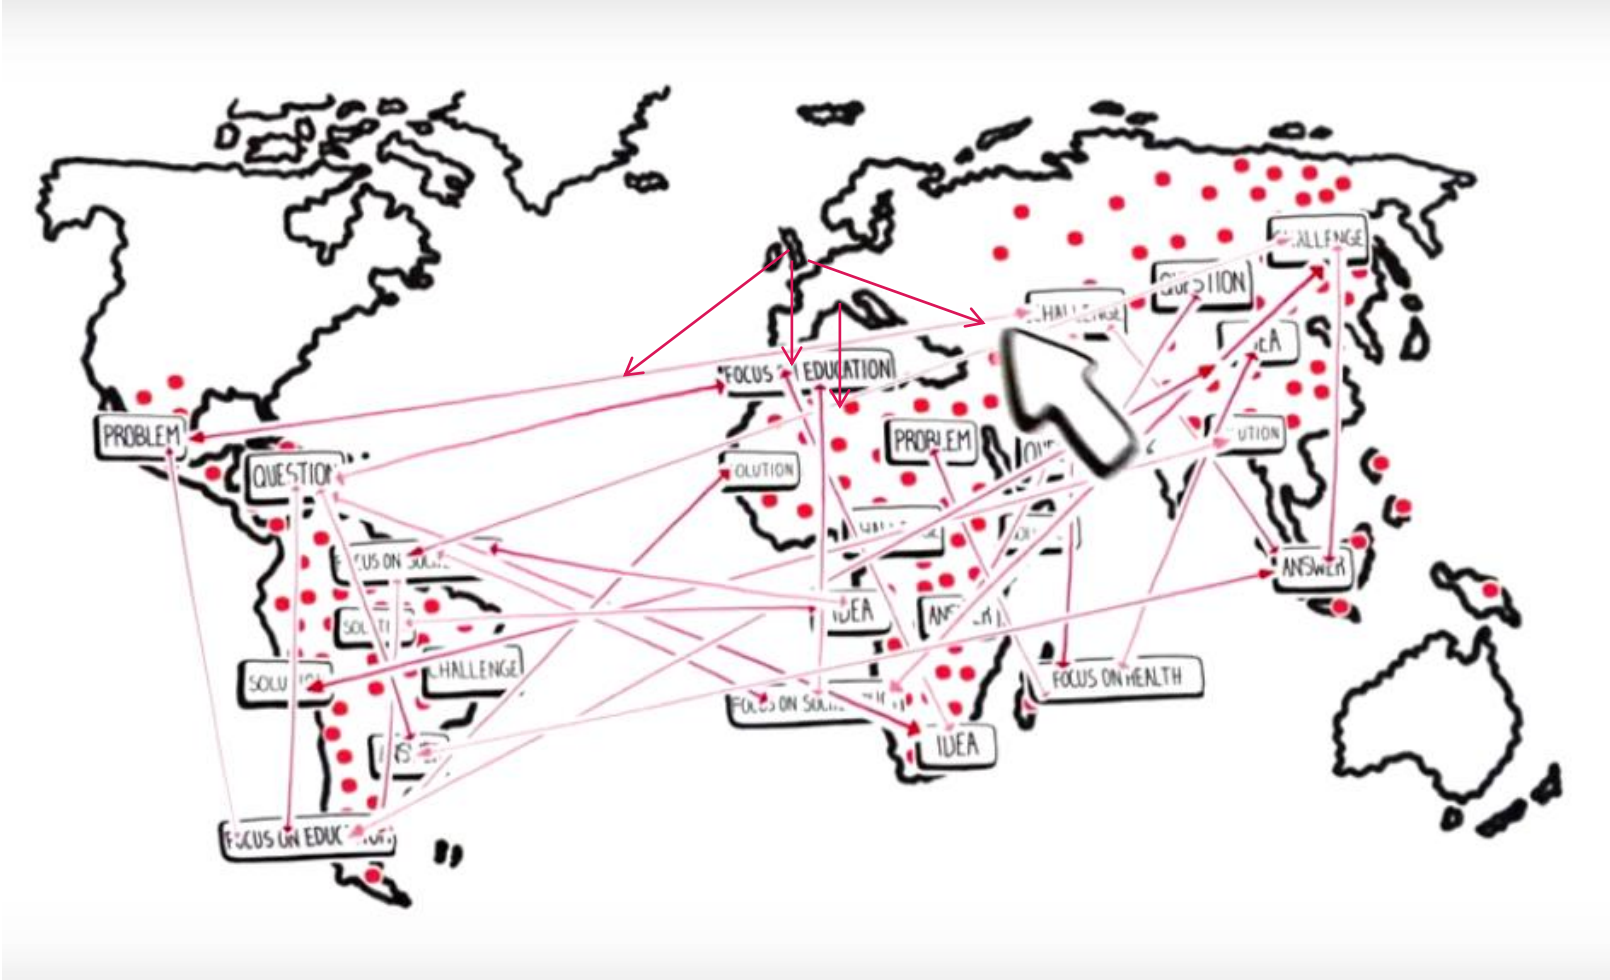

illustrations of.com #49140

© Can Stock Photo

INASP's role

The VakaYiko consortium works in Ghana, South Africa and Zimbabwe to build the capacity of policy-makers to recognise, articulate and act on research to shape better policy.

The views presented here are those of the speaker, and do not necessarily represent the views of VakaYiko or our partners.

inasp.info/vakayiko

